LONDON, SATURDAY, February 17, 1733. NUMB. CXLIX.

To the AUTHOR of the WEEKLY REGISTER: Or, UNIVERSAL JOURNAL.

SIR,

HAVING received the following Piece of Entertainment from a Friend of mine in his own Hand-writing, I shall make no Apology for desiring you to give it a Place in your Journal. My Friend stiles it, The Adventures of an accomplish'd Cuckold; and begins thus:

I was just come from the University, says he, where I had been for three Years, to fulfil a genteel Education, and to fit me for a considerable Estate I was entitled to at my Father's Death; who, poor Man! happen'd very luckily to depart this Life three Days before I came to Town; and I, being of Age, enter'd upon my Estate, mourn'd outwardly for a whole Fortnight, and then turn'd Beau. And as we Scholars, as soon as we leave the University, knowing very little of the World, are easily caught by the Snares of the Fair Sex, I fell desperately in Love with a young Lady, at a Ball, by having the Favour of dancing a Minuet with her: And as her Fortune was very inconsiderable to mine, the old Don her Father readily gave his Consent; but wheedled me in to settle 500 l. per Annum Jointure upon her; which I did, and was, to my Imagination, very happily married to her.

I have nothing to say against her Temper, which always appeared very smooth in my Presence; and she was very little addicted to the feminine Quality of Scolding, which was a Virtue very much balanced her other Faults.

But here, I must confess, I had a very bad Disposition towards Roving, and could not confine myself to my Home and my Wife, being now in the Height of Gaiety, and unguarded against all Amours; and so fell into the Conversation of a Neighbour's Wife, who was, as I used to stile him, my particular Friend.

In his Absence, one Night, I was conducting his Wife to a private Tavern, where we had had several Meetings; when, not going into the usual Room that was provided for us, I took her into the next; where, who should I find but my particular Friend and my Wife? who, no Doubt, had been as amorous together as we design'd to have been: In short, we all stood much amaz'd, looking upon one another; but neither of us spoke one Word, but, making an Exchange, and taking our own, we very silently went to our several Homes.

But my poor innocent Soul, by her excessive Grief, fell into a violent Fever, which carried her off in four Days; she having first humbly begg'd for, and obtain'd Forgiveness from my Hands; and was interred, after a decent Manner, two Days after. I put on Mourning, and wore it for a long whole Week; when I thought Widowhood little agreed with my Years, and it was full Time to set up for a Batchelor again; which I did accordingly, dressing myself to the greatest Extravagancy.

And on the next Day I fell desperately in Love with a young Widow (then in her Weeds) by accidentally hearing her play exceeding harmonious on the Spinnet. Well! I made my Addresses to her, and soon got her Consent on these Terms; That I should purchase a fine Country Seat for her, and be obliged to keep my Coach as long as she liv'd, and, if I died before her, to leave her in good Circumstances to keep it herself.

I readily complied with these Articles, and the rather because her Fortune itself was very considerable; and having bought a License, we immediately wedded.

Well! my new Bride kept her Temper for the first Day; but on the second, to my no little Surprize, I found her to be somewhat noisy, and now and then to discharge an Oath or two at her Handmaids; and on the third I was inform'd by her, that her former Husband was a Captain, and I found, by my own Experience, she had learnt of him the Art of swearing a Round-hand, (as the Phrase is used) and would take Occasion, at the least Discontent I shew'd, to beat an Oath into my Head with a good Box o' the Ear, which I, like a sober Fool, took very patiently. I bought a Coach and Pair; but she swore she would not ride with less than four Horses. Well! I bought her four; and then she swore she must, and she would have six to carry her down to her Country Seat: I then bought two more; and my whimsical Lady went to her Country Seat, where she made much Disorder, and ordered a great deal of Alteration to be made, stay'd two whole Days, was then quite weary of the Place, and on the third came to Town again.

I went out early the next Day, to advise with a Friend of mine; and when I came back at Night, wond'ring to find my House in so great Silence, I was assured by my Servant, that my Lady had pack'd up all her Commodities, and was gone away in an Hackney-Coach, leaving no News when she should return.

A Week past away (very happily spent) and no Wife appear'd; and at last I receiv'd a Letter from her to this Effect:

That a little before she was married, she mistook the Name Robert for Roberts in the News Paper; and that her Husband the Captain, who she concluded was dead by that Mistake, was to her great Grief unhappily return'd, and had supply'd his Place of Husband for the Week past; however she begg'd I would make no Discovery to her Husband, and she would be bound in a Bond of 1000 l. to be paid to me on that Condition: Which Bond I took with the greatest Satisfaction imaginable, and return'd Thanks to Heaven for my happy Deliverance.

I now once again enjoyed my Freedom, and was truly happy; but Fools don't know wherein their Felicity consists, and so are continually pulling down those Evils on their Heads, which afterwards they would give the whole World to be rid of. For so I, like a Fool, ran myself again in the Marriage Noose: And all the Reason I can give for my so doing was, because the young Lady at the Play-house accepted a Pinch of Snuff out of my Box, which made me think she had a Liking to me, and therefore I made Addresses to her.

But to awaken my Senses, which had been all this while asleep, her Wedding-Cloaths cost about 6 or 700 l. and my Bride was for ever at the Court, Mall, Play-house, &c. and the veriest Coquet in Town.

I had, accidentally, about three Months after Marriage, some Words with a Fop at a Tavern; and for no Reason in the World, (except that I was in a Passion) affronted him with the Name of Cuckold; when he instantly threw me a Letter out of his Pocket, laughed at me, and went away. I was strangely surprized to find it was my Wife's own Hand-writing, and sign'd with her Name. The Contents were;

SIR,

Our Goodman Cuckold will be absent this Night; I need not tell you your Company is desired, because you'll supply that Invitation readily enough yourself.

P. S. 'Tis a cold Night, and my Husband has left me to lie alone; you'll easily meet with a Repetition of former Favours from

The next Morning, I brib'd Betty to give her Mistress treble the Quantity of Opium she used to take; which she did, and my Spouse never woke again, and I very joyfully buried her, and

Married Betty for her good Service; whom I caught shortly in Bed with my Man John; and he being an ignorant Fellow, I told him the Crime was Death by the Law, and if he did not take her away, and marry her the next Morning, I'd have him sent to Newgate; which so terrified the poor Man, that he did accordingly; and I got rid of that Jade.

But it was against my Nature to live single, and I was once again resolv'd to marry the first I met to my Fancy.

[Price THREE HALF-PENCE.]

News extraordinary.

This Week arrived the Mail from Parnassus.

THE Muses are somewhat recovered of their Colds, and Apollo himself (who has been very much out of Order) honoured Dr. B——y with his Company at Boys's Coffee-House for two or three Hours Yester-day. N. B. We learn the Dr. is about some great Undertaking, he having stayed here five Mornings to dip in the Helicon, whereas he seldom used to stay more than two, but three at the most; and besides, for all there was very pleasant Company, he was not seen to smile once on his Journey in the Stage Coach, but mumbled to himself all the Way.

We privately are advised too, that he was so very peevish, he soured Apollo's Temper, and they had some warm Words before they parted; and his Presidentship, to shew his Resentment, hath forbid the Muses, upon any Invocation whatsoever, to assist him, and hath sent the following Piece of Poetry (by Way of Ridicule) for the Dr. to make Notes to.

I Really think (quoth Will to John)
I've din'd as well as any one
In the whole Universe hath done.
Don't be so bold (says John) I pray;
Our Mayor excepted, you should say!
Well, Well! (quoth Will) to speak my Mind
From Compliments then unconfin'd;
The greatest Cuckold, Jack, I swear
I think you be —— except our Mayor!

And the Following was composed by the Dr. at Boys's Coffee-House, after having dipt in the Helicon the first Morning.

To CHLOE.

FAIR Chloe! too long I your Charms have ador'd,
Too much Time sigh'd away, and your Pity implor'd,
You're so humourSome grown, now pleas'd, and now vext,
One Day you will slight me, caress me the next.
Thus, Chloe, eternally I may go on,
Be always a wooing, and never have done:
But I am resolv'd to bid Courtship adieu;
Be so kind to say Yes, or so kind to say No.

The Answer.

I Try'd, Sir, and try'd, but yet all I could do,
My Pen was unruly, and would not write ——.
I'll try it no more, in a Passion I said;
Lord! sit you down, Jenny, and write in my Stead.
Dear Madam, cry'd Jenny, I tell you but this,
The Pen's complaisanter than you —— it writes Yes.

P. B.

To the AUTHOR, &c.

SIR,

IF you'll insert the Following in your next Journal, you'll oblige many of your Readers, and in particular

Your humble Servant, C. A.

To FLORELLA. A Song.

I.

IN vain do I, Florella, strive
Thy matchless Charms to gain;
While you resist, and I contrive,
I'm more involv'd in Pain.

II.

Thy Beauty, like a Summer's Sky,
All radiant doth appear;
When Sol doth set, then you do rise,
And govern half the Year.

III.
Could I, fair Nymph, thy Graces tell
Exceeding Nature's Art,
Or ſhow how much you do excel
Your Sex in every Part;
IV.
I might as well deſcribe the Rays,
Which govern Day and Night;
Or tell who beſt deſerves the Bays,
If Mortals had their Right.
V.
Venus would ne'er have hop'd to gain
The Name of Beauty's Queen;
If ſo, her Hopes had all been vain,
As ſoon as you were ſeen.
VI.
Paris himſelf would ſoon agree,
Your Charms ſurpaſs'd them all;
And own her Beauty, ſeeing thee,
Both impotent and ſmall.

On BELINDA.

COU'D I the grateful Tribute pay,
Due to Belinda's Name,
No modern Fop ſhou'd block the Way;
I'd break thro' Bars of Shame.
And tell my Sex how much they owe
To this angelick Maid,
Whoſe Worth the more I ſtrive to know,
My Folly's more betray'd.
Had Rome been bleſs'd with ſuch a Dame,
She'd for a Goddeſs paſs'd;
Belinda wou'd Apollo ſhame,
And crown her Sex at laſt.

The following Verſes were written by a Miller of Corey's-Mill, near Enniskillen, Dublin, to our famous Threſher, Mr. Stephen Duck.

O Stephen, Stephen, if thy gentler Ear
Can yet a ruſtick Verſe unruffled hear,
Receive theſe Lines, but look not for much Skill,
Nor yet for Smoothneſs, from a Water-mill.
I near the Hopper ſtand with duſty Coat,
And, if my Mouth be open, duſty Throat.
The Stones, the Wheels, the Water make a Din;
Hogs grunt without, or ſqueeks a Rat within.
To meditate ſweet Verſe, is this a Place?
Or will the Muſes ſuch a Manſion grace?
Think when thy Flail rebounded from the Floor,
Was't then you made the Shunamite? —— no ſure.
And can I write? ah! make my Caſe your own,
A Miller Poet let a Threſher own.
Smooth-gliding Thames now bids thy Notes refine,
And Royal Richmond's Shades, and Caroline.
The wond'rous Grotto may thy Song inſpire;
The Foundreſs influence like celeſtial Fire.
Were I a while from Noiſe and Duſt releas'd,
And Sacks, and Horſes, and the mooter Cheſt;
And could I ſee that Hermitage, even I,
As well as you, my little Skill might try,
The ſplendid Scene attempting to recite,
Princes can build —— and ſhall not Poets write?
But the good Queen, as Fame acquaints us here,
Does ev'ry Way ſo excellent appear;
Around her ſuch diffuſive Bounty ſheds,
So conſtant in the Path of Glory treads,
That they who know her Nobleneſs of Mind,
Not much t' admire in Works of Art can find.
Should ſhe build Palaces that charm the Sight,
Her Godlike Virtues would give more Delight.
Should ſhe command high Pyramids to frame,
Her fair Perfections would more Wonder claim.
The Grotto, Stephen, no hard Task has been;
But where's an equal Pen to ſuch a Queen?

SATURDAY, February 10.

ON Thurſday laſt the Jury, according to Adjournment, met upon the Murder of Mrs. Duncombe, at the Mitre Tavern in Fleet-ſtreet, and the Coroner laid before them all the Evidence that poſſibly could be had, when they brought in their Verdict Wilful Murder, and committed by Sarah Malcolm only, it not then appearing that any other Perſon was concern'd; and as to her Confeſſion, that three others were concern'd with her, they gave no Regard to it, none knowing any ſuch Perſons ſhe pretended to be her Accomplices: Likewiſe the Money that was found in her Hair, &c. appeared to be much about the ſame Sum, as ſeveral Witneſſes declar'd, they knew Mrs. Duncombe to be poſſeſſed of, beſides the Silver Tankard.

A Copy of a Letter ſent by the Corporation of Colcheſter, to their Repreſentatives in Parliament, in Relation to the Exciſes.

Gentlemen,

In Conſequence of that Right we undoubtedly have to apply to our Repreſentatives in Parliament on all Occaſions, we take this Opportunity of complaining that Trade has long labour'd under many Diſcouragements, not to call them Oppreſſions, in Reſpect of the Laws of Exciſe, and particularly an undue and partial Execution of them; which Practice is become ſo odious and burthenſome, that nothing leſs than the Animadverſion and Correction of Parliament can redreſs ſuch a growing Evil.

During this melancholy Situation, and whilſt the Miſchiefs of the Laws that are already in Being, touching Exciſes, are univerſally felt and complained of, we can ſcarce give Credit to the Surmizes of new ones of the like dangerous Tendency being propoſed; but leſt, contrary to the concurrent Sentiments of Perſons of all Denominations, any one ſhould be ſo forgetful of his Duty to his Country, as to attempt the laying on any new Exciſe on any Branch of Trade, in any Form, or on any Pretence whatſoever, we hope, nay, we expect, you ſhould oppoſe it to the utmoſt of your Power, as an Affair dangerous to the very Being of Parliaments, and our excellent Conſtitution. We are, SIRS, Yours, &c.

Preferment. Mr. Reeves, one of the King's Council, is appointed one of the Judges of the Court of Common-Pleas, in the room of Judge Price, deceas'd; and the laſt Day of this Term he will be ſworn in accordingly, and will go the Midland Circuit with Mr. Juſtice Probyn.

Marriage. On Thurſday laſt Mr. William Rawlinſon, jun. Ironmonger, Son of Mr. William Rawlinſon in Graithwaite, Gent. was married at the Meeting-Houſe in Wandſworth to Miſs Oldner of York-Place in Surrey, Niece to the late Sir Richard Oldner, a young Lady of 4000l. Fortune.

Deaths. Thurſday Morning died Capt. Slow, Adjutant of the firſt Regiment of Foot Guards.——A few Days ſince died William Megus, Eſq; Quarter-Maſter, belonging to his Grace the Duke of Bolton's Regiment.——Yeſterday died William Lethieullier, Eſq;—The ſame Day died Mr. Seawell, an eminent Haberdaſher of Small Wares in Newgate-ſtreet.

MONDAY, February 12.

On Saturday laſt Thomas and James Alexander, Brothers, were committed to Newgate by Sir Richard Brocas, and Mary Tracey to the ſaid Jail by Juſtice Giffard, all upon the Information of Sarah Malcolm, for being concern'd with her in the Murder of Mrs. Duncombe and her two Maids the 3d Inſtant, in the Temple. The Circumſtances attending their being apprehended were as follow, viz.

James Alexander, a Boy about 17 Years of Age, hir'd himſelf about three Weeks ago to draw Drink at Mr. Akerman's, the Red-Lion Alehouſe at Bridewell-Bridge, and came to his Place on Monday Morning laſt. On Thurſday hearing it talk'd about his Maſter's Houſe that Sarah Malcolm, then in Newgate for the ſaid Murder, had made an Information againſt one Thomas and James Alexander and Mary Tracey, the Boy ſaid to his Maſter, My Name is James Alexander, and I have a Brother nam'd Thomas; and my Mother nurs'd a Woman where the ſaid Sarah Malcolm liv'd. Upon giving which Account Mr. Akerman ſent directly to Mr. Alſtone, Turnkey of Newgate, and inform'd him of it; ſo on Friday Night they ſeized the Boy and carried him to the Woman, who immediately charg'd him with being the Perſon that was under the Bed, and afterwards opening the Door, whereupon he was detain'd in Cuſtody; and he inform'd them where his Brother and Mary Tracey might be found, on which they went and ſeized them, and Sarah Malcolm charg'd them likewiſe with being concern'd in the ſaid Murder; but nothing appear'd before Sir Richard Brocas to found a Suppoſition upon of their being guilty; nevertheleſs Malcolm inſiſting on it, they were committed to Newgate. As it is evident from the Depoſitions taken, as well before Sir Richard Brocas, as before the Coroner's Inqueſt, that there was but 54l. taken out of Mrs. Duncombe's Chambers, whereof 53l. 11s. 6d. was found upon her in Newgate, ſo 'tis ſuſpected that ſhe has only charg'd theſe three Perſons with a Thought of ſaving her own Life.

On Friday laſt upwards of 50 Men being employ'd at Mr. Baker's Rope Walk at Stepney-Cauſeway, in making a large Cable, their Tackle broke and the Cable flew, whereby two Men were kill'd on the Spot, and ſeveral others much bruiſed.

TUESDAY, February 13.

On Tueſday laſt Mr. Valentine Tidd, an eminent Baker near Hanover-Square, Rotherhith, hanged himſelf in his Garters, being diſorder'd in his Senſes, occaſion'd, as is ſuppos'd, by a Fright of Fire, the Warehouſe where he laid his Bavins having narrowly eſcap'd being burnt down a Night or two before. Friday laſt the Coroner's Inqueſt ſat on the Body, and brought in their Verdict Lunacy.

Yeſterday being the laſt Day of Term, ſeveral Perſons appeared on their Recognizances. Mr. Rayner, the Printer of the Pamphlet called, Robin's Game, or, Seven's the Main, of which he was convicted, was ſurrendered by his Bail in the ſaid Court, and committed Priſoner to the King's-Bench, till the 1ſt Day of next Term, when he is to be brought up to the ſaid Court to receive Judgment. His Counſel offered to move in Arreſt of Judgment, but that was alſo put off till he comes to receive the ſame. By Letters to our Merchants which arriv'd in their Ships from South Barbary laſt Week we have an Account, that the Britiſh Conſul at Mequinez, who for his better Security from the Anger of the Emperor of Morocco had retired to Tetuan, was ſent for back by his Majeſty's Order; to whom he having excus'd himſelf, and in the Name of the King of Great Britain demanded the Reſtitution of the Engliſh Ship taken before Chriſtmas laſt by the Barbary Rovers, was anſwer'd, that the Ship ſhould be releaſed forthwith.

that being contradictory to the Evidence given at the Coroner's Inquest.

Yesterday four Men came to Town from Briſtol, in order to be Evidences at the enſuing Seſſions of the High Court of Admiralty, againſt Captain Harris, who is charged with the Murder of one of his Crew on the Coaſt of Guinea, by giving him ſeveral Blows with a knotted Rope, of which he languiſh'd for 14 Days, and then died.

They write from Glouceſter of the 12th Inſtant, That the epidemical Diſtemper which had been ſo fatal in London, was alſo very riſe there; that the Rev. Mr. Charles Hartley	Mr. Giles Mills

At the ſame Time the following Repreſentation of the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Commons of the City of London, in Common-Council aſſembled, to Sir John Eyles, Mr. Alderman Parſons, Sir John Barnard, and Mr. Alderman Perry, their Repreſentatives in Parliament

This Court doth apprehend, from the Experience of the Laws of Exciſe now in being, that extending thoſe Laws to any Commodities not yet exciſed, muſt neceſſarily be very prejudicial to Trade, both as it will probably diminiſh the Conſumption of the Commodity to be exciſed, and ſubject the fair Trader to the frequent and arbitrary Viſitation of Officers, and the judicial Determination of Commiſſioners removable at Pleaſure, from whom there is no Appeal.

That the Extenſion of ſuch Laws muſt neceſſarily increaſe the Number and Power of Officers, which will be inconſiſtent with thoſe Principles of Liberty, on which our happy Conſtitution is founded; and will further deprive the Subjects of England of ſome of thoſe valuable Privileges, which have hitherto diſtinguiſhed them from the neighbouring Nations.

Wherefore, this Court doth earneſtly recommend it to you their Repreſentatives, to uſe your utmoſt Diligence in oppoſing a Scheme of this Nature, ſhould any ſuch be offered in Parliament, in any Shape, or however limited in its firſt Appearance; being fully convinced, that an Inland Duty on Goods now rated at the Cuſtom-houſe, cannot be effectually collected even with an Extenſion of the Powers, or the ſevereſt Exerciſe of all the Rigours of the preſent Laws of Exciſe.

We are aſſured that the Corporation of Bath have written to their Members, deſiring them ſtrenuouſly to oppoſe any new Exciſe, or the Extenſion of the Exciſe Laws.

Yeſterday a Board was held at the Admiralty, when 12 Men of War of the Line were ordered to be fitted to go up the Mediterranean this Spring, under the Command of Admiral Stewart; and Capt. Daves of the Suffolk, is appointed to command under him, in his Majeſty's Ship the Edinburgh, a third Rate of 70 Guns.

We hear that Sarah Malcolm only will be proſecuted for the Murder of the three Perſons in the Temple, there being not the leaſt Colour to grouud Indictments againſt Thomas and James Alexander, and Mary Tracy (the Perſons in Newgate) beſides her Affidavit.

On Tueſday laſt was tried before the Right Hon. the Lord Raymond in the Court of King's-Bench, Weſtminſter, a Cauſe between one Thomas, Plaintiff, and a Pawnbroker, Defendant, being for Goods pawn'd with the Defendant to a conſiderable Value, which he afterwards refuſed to deliver up at an Intereſt of 5 per Cent. but the Jury brought in their Verdict for the Plaintiff, and 200l. Damages.

We have the following ſurprizing Account from Boyle in Ireland, viz. That there is ſtill living in that Place one Brewen, aged 109 Years: He carried Arms in the Parliament Forces in 1641: He ſtill retains his old Set of Teeth, on the Inſide of which he has a new Set full grown. About two Years ago he caſt one of his old Fore-Teeth, and has a new one in its Place: He loſt his Sight ſuddenly about 16 Years ſince; but has lately recovered in ſome Meaſure the Sight of his left Eye.

Preferments. The Right Hon. Sir Robert Walpole is elected High Steward of Yarmouth, in the room of the Right Hon. the Earl of Yarmouth, deceas'd.

Deaths. Yeſterday died, at his Houſe in Sherbourn-Lane, Mr. Joſeph Lowe, an eminent Merchant of this City.—— On Sunday laſt died at Portſmouth, William Smith, Eſq; one of the Aldermen of that Borough.——A few Days ſince died at Bromley near Bow, —— Wolſby, Eſq;

A Letter has been received by T. C. dated the 13th Inſt. wherein was a Copy of Verſes with a Poſtſcript. If the Perſon who wrote it will favour me with a ſecond Letter, their Name and Place of Abode, it will be eſteem'd a great Favour, by their humble Servant, T. C. There being no Engagement.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Amſterdam, Feb. 20. N. S.

FROM Turin they write, that the King of Sardinia has reſolv'd to augment his Forces with 4000 Men: From Genoa, that a Part of the Troops which the King of Morocco had ſent before that Place were again withdrawn; and it's aſſur'd, that the inteſtine Troubles of the Kingdom prevail ſo much, that the Spaniards have very little to fear from Muley Abdallah's Attacks: From Lisbon, that the King of Portugal has lately eſtabliſh'd four Academies in different Parts of his Kingdom, to improve his Subjects in the Art of War: And from Barcelona, that five Men of War are ſail'd from thence for Oran, having on board Troops, Ammunition and Proviſions for Service of that Garriſon.

Hague, Feb. 20. N. S. We have Advice from Warſaw, that the Death of King Auguſtus is univerſally regretted in that Kingdom; and that it's talk'd as if the Regency were preparing the Univerſalia for the Convocation of an Extraordinary Diet, to be held on Horſeback, for the Election of a new King, on which Account four different Factions are teem'd, though their reſpective Aims are not as yet mature enough to venture into Light. People of Penetration however gueſs at their Deſigns, and ſpeak of the firſt, as ſtrenuous for the Recall of King STANISLAUS, whoſe Virtues render him worthy of the Crown; but the ſeveral Laws which the Republick has made ſince his Reſignation, ſeem ſo many Bars againſt his Re-Acceſſion. To the Views of the ſecond, they ſet out the PRINCE ROYAL, now Elector of Saxony; and his Party is the moſt conſiderable, having in it not only the Partizans which were ſo in the late King's Reign, but ſeveral other Grandees, whoſe Gratitude to ſo good a Prince has drawn over to the Intereſt of his Son. The third Cabal is in Favour of the Regimentary PONIATOWSKI: And the laſt are for the CHEVALIER DE ST. GEORGE, who married the Princeſs Sobieski, Grand Daughter of the late King John. We are aſſur'd, that this laſt Candidate will be back'd by the Court of Rome; and as the Primate of Poland has a conſiderable Influence in the Election, 'tis ſaid that the Holy Father has offer'd to raiſe him to the Purple, on Condition of his promoting his Holineſs's Nomination.

Hague, Jan. 13. N. S. Three Pruſſian Officers were lately ſeized at Maeſtricht, for endeavouring to corrupt ſome Soldiers of that Garriſon, and to inveigle them into the Service of the King their Maſter; and being condemned by the Council of War, that is to ſay, by the Council of State; for we have no General Council of War in Times of Peace. Upon this, the Pruſſian Miniſter here went immediately to the Preſident of the States-General, to the Regiſter Fagel, and to ſeveral other principal Lords of the State, to intercede for thoſe Officers; but was anſwered, That their High-Mightineſſes knew nothing of the Matter: That if, as he ſaid, there were ſuch Recruiting Officers ſeized, they muſt be tried by the Council of War of the Garriſon: That poſſibly the Council of State might be informed of this Affair; but that it did by no Means lie before their High-Mightineſſes: That, in ſhort, if the ſaid Officers were guilty, Juſtice muſt be done; and that by puniſhing them, not only the Ordinances of the State would be executed, but alſo thoſe of his Pruſſian Majeſty himſelf, who had lately repeated his Prohibition of thoſe clandeſtine Practices: And that they were ſo well perſuaded of the King of Pruſſia's Equity, that they could never believe he would oppoſe what was done by due Courſe of Law. Nevertheleſs, we are aſſured, that Prince has written a long Letter to their High Mightineſſes, deſiring them to order thoſe three Officers to be delivered up to him, his Majeſty at the ſame Time very much blaming their Conduct, and promiſing to puniſh them in ſuch a Manner, as ſhould be entirely to their High-Mightineſſes Satisfaction, and an Example to others, to keep them within the Bounds of their Duty.

Hague, Jan. 23. N. S. Notwithſtanding the Repreſentations of the Pruſſian Miniſter here, backed by the King his Maſter's Letters to their High-Mightineſſes, the Council of State ſent back to Maeſtricht the Papers relating to the Proceedings againſt the two Pruſſian Recruiting Officers, a Serjeant, and a Guide, who were ſeized there ſome Weeks ago; with Orders to the Council of War to go through that Affair in the Forms preſcribed by the military Laws and Ordinances of the State: And this Morning we received Advice, that on Wedneſday laſt the two Officers were beheaded, the Guide (being a Subject of this State) was hanged, and the Serjeant having ſeen the Execution was ſent away, as guilty of no Crime but that of obeying the Orders of his Superiors. The Reſolution of the State upon this Occaſion does it a great deal of Honour, and will perhaps put a Stop to the pernicious Practice of Man-hunting, ſo much in Vogue of late with the Pruſſian Officers.

Wezel, Feb. 10. N. S. No Words can expreſs how angry the King of Pruſſia is with a neighbouring State, ſince he heard of the Execution of two of his Officers at Maeſtricht. He will not be pacified; but has already begun to make Repriſals upon ſome of their High-Mightineſſes Officers in the Duchy of Cleves, where he has actually cauſed them to be ſeized. We expect to ſee an Army encamped in our Neighbourhood very ſoon, in order to revenge the Death of theſe two Officers, by ſome Enterprize of Importance againſt Gelderland, or ſome other of the United Provinces.

Hague, Feb. 13. N. S. Their High-Mightineſſes have received Advice from Berlin, that the King of Pruſſia threatens the Republick with the moſt terrible Effects of his Reſentment, upon Account of the Execution of his Recruiting Officers at Maeſtricht: And therefore they have taken Meaſures to prevent Surprize. There is now no more Talk of a Reduction of the Troops; but the Garriſons in Gelderland, and the other Places bordering upon his Pruſſian Majeſty's Territories, are reinforcing; and Orders are ſent to the Miniſters of the State reſiding in Foreign Courts, to acquaint them with the Reaſons which induced their High-Mightineſſes to puniſh thoſe bold Recruiters; and as nothing has been done but in the Courſe of the ſtricteſt Juſtice, it is hoped that all the Sovereigns, eſpecially thoſe in the Neighbourhood of the King of Pruſſia, and thoſe in whoſe Countries his Officers have had the Temerity to go a Soldier-hunting, will take their High-Mightineſſes Part.

Some Letters from Seville mention the Death of Don Joſeph Patiuha, Prime Miniſter to their Catholick Majeſties. He was eldeſt Brother of the Marquis de Caſtel-lar, who notwithſtanding his being younger, enjoyed the Title and Eſtate of the Family, becauſe his elder Brother turned Jeſuite; but he thought fit to lay aſide the Gown, to be made, firſt, Intendant of the Navy; afterwards, Secretary of State; and laſtly, Prime Miniſter. What is not a Man capable of, that has been girt with St. Ignatius's Surcingle?

Paris, Feb. 22. They write from Lisbon of the 15th paſt, that the Poſts of Enſigns in the Army, are to be filled by ſuch young Gentlemen as ſhall beſt diſtinguiſh themſelves in the four Academies newly eſtabliſhed, for inſtructing them in the military Art, and that no Officer is to be admitted into any Poſt, from the Enſign to the Colonel, till he has firſt paſſed an Examination by the Engineer General of this Kingdom, in the Preſence of the Members of the Council of War, and the Junto of the three Eſtates. That his Portugueze Majeſty deſigned alſo to form in each Regiment of Infantry, a Company of Engineers, who are to have the ſole Right of Captains of thoſe Companies, and who may be promoted to that of Serjeant-Major of the Infantry.

They write from Naples of the 20th paſt, That they had felt in that City, and almoſt in all the reſt of that Kingdom, new Shocks of an Earthquake; that particularly at Benevento they were ſo violent for ſeveral Hours, at Times, that moſt of the Churches and other Edifices, which had reſiſted the former Earthquake, had been much damaged by this laſt; and that all the Inhabitants, even the Archbiſhop himſelf, had been obliged to retire out of the City, for fear of being buried under the Ruins of the Houſes. 'Tis added, that they had learnt from Meſſina, that about the ſame Time Mount Ætna had thrown out a prodigious Number of large Stones, ſome of which were carried as far as Catanea, and had done great Damage: That this Eruption was preceded by a thick Fog; that afterwards was heard a moſt frightful Noiſe, which made People believe that the Vulcana was ſwallowed up; that ſome Minutes after that, iſſued out a black Smoak which darkened the whole Horizon: That this Smoak was ſucceeded by the Eruption above mentioned, and that from this Vulcana had iſſued terrible Flames every Night, and ſometimes by Day. From Milan of the 28th paſt, that they talked there of a March of the King of Sardinia's Troops from Lombardy towards Turin, on a Report that the French Troops augmented daily in Dauphine: And that 'twas aſſured that the Spaniards had reſolved to demoliſh Oran, and keep Mazalquivir for the Sake of its having a better Harbour for Ships. And from Hanover of the 7th Inſtant, that a French Appellant from the Conſtitution Unigenitus, hsd embraced the Proteſtant Religion there: That he preached the Sunday before in the French Church, and was to be admitted the Sunday after as Preacher in Ordinary therein.

Verſailles, Feb. 19. Madame de France, third Daughter of their Majeſties, died this Day about Three o'Clock in the Morning: That Princeſs was four Years, three Months, and 21 Days old, being born the 28th of July 1728.

Petersbourg, Jan. 23. There is no Appearance yet of the Court's being prevail'd upon, at the Inſtances of the Emperor, to withdraw the Ruſſian Troops from Courland; ſo that Count Wratiſlaw, Imperial Miniſter, who waits only the Arrival of Prince Anthony Ulric of Beveren, is like to depart without Succeſs in that Particular. In Purſuance of the laſt Treaty concluded with the Duke of Liria, whereby the Tariff with Spain is put on the ſame Foot with that of Great Britain and Holland, the Merchants have reſolved to ſend ſix Ships under the Eſcort of two Frigates, and propoſe great Advantages by the Spaniſh Trade. The Court grows very circumſpect in the Affairs of Perſia, and has reſolv'd to fortify the Frontiers, and augment the Troops in thoſe Parts.
